Personal statement

Rather than having just one topic of expertise, my research work is curiosity-driven and involves collaborations in different subfields with several groups. Apart from my research, I commit very actively to teaching, and I have taken many teacher training courses. I contributed to the formation of the Gender Committee of the Argentinian Physical Society, of which I was a member for three years. I have promoted the consolidation of the community working on quantum science in Argentina as division coordinator in the Argentinian Physical Society, organizer of specialized scientific meetings, and member of an assessment committee for the National Ministry of Science, Innovation and Technology.
