

CC9. Damián Morero (UNC, FCEFyN)

Forward error correction for next-generation high-speed optical networks.

This presentation describes the use of forward error correction (FEC) in optical communication. The motivation and challenges in the implementation of FECs for high speed application ($>100\text{Gb/s}$) is described. The state of the art and the future of this technology is addressed.